I am

A patient or caregiver managing multiple medicines, with limited medical knowledge but strong concern about safety

I'm trying to Understand whether my prescribed medicines are safe to take together, recognize side effects correctly, and decide if my symptoms require medical attention

But

Prescriptions are hard to read, medicine names are confusing, online information is overwhelming or unreliable, and I cannot clearly judge whether a symptom is normal or dangerous

Because

Medical information is fragmented, technical, and not personalized to my exact medicines and condition. Doctors have limited time, and I lack a structured way to verify interactions and monitor symptoms safel

Which makes me feel

Anxious, uncertain, and afraid of making a wrong decision that could harm myself or my loved ones
